

RJG Systematic Molding

Are Your Labor Costs Associated with Quality Control, Out of Control?

Are you or your management FEELING PRESSURE because:

- You have gone through the TIME CONSUMING AND EXPENSIVE TASK of hand sorting parts for quality or experienced the repercussions of shipping DEFECTIVE PARTS?
- You are concerned with CHASING PROCESSING ISSUES at your plant without knowing why or who authorized it?

Introduction

The RJG Systematic Molding course classroom content includes activity based exercises that reinforces the ideas and concepts that are taught and help students retain the information.

Course Detail

Topics of discussion:

- Identify the molding machine, mold, process relationship, capability and success potential.
- Ensure that the material is in the correct condition when it arrives at the molding machine.
- Define the steps required to develop a Scientific Machine Independent Process.
- Shear-rate viscosity study for any mold / material combination
- Trouble-Shoot More Effectively by using a scientific and systematic approach, including the four plastic variables when trouble-shooting;
- The Cause and Effect Relationships between the machine, process, mold, and material;

Identify changes to machines, molds, processes and material handling that will address root causes of problems;

Non-Newtonian behavior of plastic and its impact on the injection molding process and part quality; Polymer behavior can be influenced;

Come up with fewer “band-aid” fixes and more concrete, lasting solutions for trouble shooting
